California Ranch News

California markets have been closed to Ohio decidious fruits and fruit trees because of Oriental fruit fly infestation in the Buckeye State, E. C. Fleury, state quarantine officer, announced the quarantine.

William M. Jardine, United States secretary of agriculture, will attend the annual picnic of the Sonoma County Farm Bureau Federation, he notified Charles F. King, president of the federation, by telegram a few days ago. Secretary Jardine expects to tour the Pacific Coast in June and the date of the picnic will be set to accommodate him. The location has not yet been selected.

With the advance of the agricultural season in California the demand for farm help is increasing. This condition is noted in an employment report for April, which was issued last week by the United States Department of Labor. Much activity is reported in quicksilver mining. Construction work for the state includes many large projects. Many workmen will be needed for the rest of this month for general farm work.

The Market News Service of the department of agriculture at Washington reports that May crop developments indicate fairly good orchard fruit crops in California, with a slightly larger bearing acreage. Oranges, apples, pears, plums, grapes and peaches began the season well. Apricots, almonds and cherries were only fair. Grape acreage may be slightly reduced owing to temporary setback caused by some grafting from table grapes to juice varieties.

The alarming possibility that the lettuce industry in California is ultimately doomed unless steps are taken to check certain diseases, was brought out at Santa Maria recently by Dr. J. B. Kendrick of the University Farm at Davis, at a conference with a group representing 60 per cent of the vegetable growers and packers of the Santa Maria Valley. Dr. Kendrick was brought to Santa Maria by Farm Adviser Raymond Ellis, and Inspector Clarence L. Nielson of the Horticultural Commission, that he might talk to valley produce men on the subject of truck crop diseases, in which he specializes.

The fact that no two truck crop seasons are identical is illustrated in a tabulation of daily lettuce shipments for 1927 and for the first four months of 1928, just completed by A. E. Prugh, Los Angeles representative of the United States market news service. This compilation also shows shipments of 200 cars and more daily are becoming matters of frequent occurrence. The highest number of cars of lettuce loaded in one day during the 1928 spring deal is recorded for April 25 when 301 cars rolled marketward. For the first part of the year up to the middle of March, the heaviest shipments originated in the Imperial Valley, while during the last of March and the first of April the Salt River Valley of Arizona was the heaviest shipper. Since the middle of April the Central California district has seen the heaviest operation.

The Orange county Valencia crop started moving the last of April when picking crews started havesting the golden fruit in various districts of Orange county, including Tustin, Anaheim, Orange, Placentia and Fullerton. Packing started simultaneously and the crop is now finding its way East in quantity. The 1928 crop will be only about 60 per cent normal, owing, experts say, to the heavy crops of the past three years. The trees, they declare, are taking a needed rest. Because of the general light crop in California and the reported shortage of the Florida crop, the prices for 1928 are expected to reach a high mark.

In the opinion of H. E. Walcott, manager of the Pomona Fruit Growers' Exchange of 280 grower members, the total receipts from oranges shipped this season by this exchange will total $1,250,000, breaking all previous records, by $100,000 or more. The exchange has finished its pack of navels amounting to 600 carloads, and expects to ship around 125 cars of Valencias. A single payment of $290,000 was recently distributed among the exchange members, the largest single disbursement in the history of the business in Pomona.

Golden State
News of Interest to All

Relief measures for the great army of California's adult blind are now being prepared for submisison to the state legislature which convenes next January, it was learned recently. Success of the bill providing aid for crippled children at the 1927 session is taken to augur well for the new aid-for-the-blind program. The greatest statewide movement in history is under way to ascertain the type of legislation most needed, according to Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, director of the department of social welfare.

A California barber must be an educated man, at least to the extent of an eighth grade schooling, R. L. Chamberlain, deputy attorney general, has informed the State Board of Barbers' Examiners. No barber "college" can be accredited which does not insist upon this prerequisite, nor can any barber from another state practice his trade without being thus qualified for his license. The board was also told barber shops must be partitioned off from other places of business, whatever their condition, before the law was passed.

The formation of an organization of Sacramento Valley landowners to confer with the state authorities on an equitable distribution of flood control costs between the landowners and the state was urged last week by Robert T. Devlin, attorney for a number of reclamation districts and prominently identified for years with flood control matters. Pointing out that the federal government is now ready to do its share through the adoption of legislation increasing its contribution to Sacramento river flood control works from $5,600,000 to $17,600,000. Devlin declared the state should now do its share by paying the entire cost of flood control.

Sheriffs in California are not entitled to any profit from the sums allotted by the county for feeding prisoners in the county jails, according to an opinion rendered by Attorney General U. S. Webb to Elmer W. Heald, district attorney of Imperial county. Heald stated that Sheriff Gillett is allotted 20 cents per meal per prisoner and that a grand jury investigation found he was feeding the prisoners on a less sum.

California's public schools cost her $143,819,221.15 last year. Reports to the state made by county superintendents show that kindergartens cost $3,605,842, elementary schools, $76,692,515.17, and high schools $63,520,863.62.

The United States government has made an appropriation of about $190,000 yearly for experiments on behalf of forest conservation in California. This national assistance comes through the passage of the McNary-McSweeney Forest Research bill, in the House of Representatives last week. President Coolidge is expected to sign the bill, as he has already "clear listed" it. Officials of the California Development Association are jubilant over this victory which they have worked hard to secure. The federal endowment is made to this organization, and is the seal of approval of the activities undertaken and carried out by the California Development Association and the State Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning of a state wide campaign to secure a narcotic isolation farm in California was announced in San Francisco last week. The Narcotic Research Association, a state-wide organization, will direct the campaign. The object of the association is to gain the approval of the Legislature for an appropriation large enough to establish a farm on a scale to accommodate 1,500 addicts. Either an island or a desert will be urged as a site, it was announced. The time has come, directors of the association declared in an official statement, to change the policy "of trying to legislate and control by police measures drug addiction, which is primarily a medical question."

If private Capital is called in to finanace California's proposed $358,000,000 water development program, franchises and contracts affecting construction of the various power and irrigation dams must safeguard the interests of ultimate public ownership at all times. That attitude was plainly reflected by Alexander R. Heron, director of finance and state administration leader, in a statement declaring that sale of power is conceded to be the most logical means of paying for suggested units in the statewide water plan. The elaborate series of reservoirs, canals and pumping plants brought to the attention of the last legislature for greater storage and distribution of California water resources is being studied by the legislative water committee.

GUILD GRATIFIED AT FESTIVAL RESULT

The May Festival conducted last Friday by the ladies of the Congregational Guild and the young people of the church was highly successful from all points of view.

The booths arranged in the church yard under a partly open tent gave the impression of an oriental bazaar. Here food, aprons and fancy articles, candy and other things were on sale.

In the afternoon a combined band from the Campbell Union, Santa Clara and Moreland schools under the direction of Edward Towner furnished delightful entertainment and the christening of the Sea Scout boat was another interesting feature.

The games conducted by the Scout boys netted a neat sum for their fund. A delicious supper was served to some 130 appreciative patrons and later in the evening the ladies presented "The Old Peabody Pew," by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

The audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy the old fashioned costumes and the sharp quips and sallies which the ladies passed back and forth. The members of the carpet committee of the Edgewood Dorcas Society, who constituted the cast were:

Mrs. Baxter, Minister's Wife ..... Mrs. Theo. Cutting
Mrs. Burbank, President of the Dorcas Society ..... Mrs. Frank Cutting

CAMPBELL "SCOUT" BOAT CHRISTENED AT CHURCH FESTIVAL CEREMONY

On the afternoon of last Friday a unique ceremony and demonstration took place in the garden of the Congregational Church The center of this attraction was the sea scout boat which belongs to the local organization. This boat was bought some months ago and completely reconditioned by the work of the different boys. At that time it was little more than a lot of boards the shape of a boat. Now it was a handsome object dressed up in its new white and gray paint and with its varnished fore deck glistening in the afternoon sunlight. For this occasion it reposed on the two wheeled trailer which had taken it to the Fiesta parade for a prize.

At about 5:30 the boat was pulled out into the center of the garden where a half circle of chairs had been arranged for the crowd. The first part of the brief program was the christening. To take part in this memoriable ceremony, Elsie Merrill was chosen by the Sea Scouts as a representative of the Campbell Campfire girls. She was daintily dressed in a white middy and skirt. After a few brief words followed by prayer Mr. Bennett turned the rest over to Eugene Grattan the first mate. He spoke briefly on the tradition of this ceremony pointing out that it originated hundred of years ago and has been carried down until at the present time the Campbell Seascouts were doing their part to keep it going. He paid tribute to his brother who he credited with the inspiration which had carried the work along. In closing he said "He is a brother who working with is a pleasure and who working without is drudgery."

He then handed a bottle, filled with some of the clear water of the Pacific, wrapped with paper and from whose neck flowed blue and white streamers. The Seascouts stood at attention and saluted as Elsie Merrill- pronounced the age old words. "I christen thee, The Campbell "Scout". The boat was now officially cristened and in theory at least ready to ride the seven seas.

Next came the demonstration. This consisted of a model cruise all taking place on dry ground. It was under the direction of Boatswain's Mate Elwood Swaine First a roll of blankets were thrown into the boat then followed oars, oar locks, life savers, an anchor, belaying pins, a tiller and rudder and other necessary equipment. The boat first put out under oars and went thus until they ran aground. They got off by throwing the anchor out of the stern and then pulling themselves off backward.

The boat was then put under sail and everything went all right until Sea Scout Noel Voge fell overboard. A life saver was thrown him and he was pulled on board and brought to under the experienced hands of the other members of the crew. During this the first mate told what the boys were doing so that the people could follow it better. The demonstration was closed by letting the smaller children get aboard. They soon covered it until little of the boat could be seen.

EVENING SCHOOL DISPLAYS SUCCESS

The night school exhibit at the high school last week was a beautiful display of art and fancy work. Dresses, hats, china and baskets were very tastily shown in the class rooms.

Mrs. Mabel Keesling in charge of the school acted as chairman at a short informal program given by the music department of the evening school.

The choral society directed by Mr. Benjamin Edwards sang a group of choruses.

Beautiful Savior ..... Christiansen
Brown Bird Singing ..... Wood
Hymn to Music ..... Buck

The orchestra under supervision of Mr. Carey gave two numbers. "Roaring Volcan," by Paul, and "Kossack Dance." Miss Anna Schuite recited two entertaining numbers. Miss Andrews sang two pleasing solos accompanied by Miss Elsie Merrill at the piano.

The program closed with a number by the orchestra.

As shown by "their works" the night school has been an enjoyable success in all departments and it is hoped that even a greater number will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded at next session.

JUNIORS HONOR SENIOR RIVALS

On Saturday night, May 26, the Junior class of the Campbell Union High Scbool, staged their annual reception for the Seniors, at the Community Hall.

The reception was officially opened by President E. Lloyd of the Junior class, who spoke concerning our enjoyable association with the Seniors during the past year. He also informed the Seniors that, although they had learned how to do many things correctly in school, the Juniors would show them how to do one more thing right. At this point he introduced a one-act comedy, given by the Juniors of the Dramatic class, under the direction of Mrs. Hummel entitle, "Grandma Pulls the Strings." Annette Merrill and Mervin Nichols sang two delightful duets entitled, "The Redwood Trail'' and "Bye Bye Seniors." The rest of the evening was taken up with games and dancing.

Punch was served during the evening and refreshments consisting of strawberry-garnished ice cream, sandwiches and cake were served about 11 o'clock.

A ten-piece orchestra played popular numbers for the games and dancing.

COMMUNITY CLUBS HOLD ANNUAL PICNICS

An Open Door

By ALFRED KREYMBORG
In The Nation

To those who wish to call I'm always home—
Providing they forget Society.
I much prefer the man to come alone—
Two hands can say enough for him and me.
In youth my heart was lonely, large and shy.
It yearned too much and grew gregarious.
The fault is mine if now I'm rather sly—
And eye old friends who've grown precarious.

Whoever he is he needn't come prepared
To find a man with any noble graces.
Nor must he mind too much if I look scared
The moment he begins to wear two faces.
The door is standing open just the same:
He can go without a word the way he came.

Co-operation Works on Farm

Co-operation works wonders, even on the farm. A Sacramento bank offered recently a silver trophy to finest one-man farm in California and the honor fell to Henry Struckman of Grass Valley, who owns 300 acres, though not all of it is exactly under cutivation. How can one man farm so much, land and farm it so well. Because he has three sons and one daughter and there is a beautiful spirit of co-operation. Struckman's sons have no desire to run off to the white lights of a big city.

The Struckman boys are thoroughly content on the farm because the undertaking is run differently than many, in that the boys are not working for room and board, but have a share in the proceeds. All profits from the gardens are divided equally among the members of the family, and this includes ma, who is also a splendid co-operator. Each boy, too, is given a share of the proceeds from the dairy. The boys have money in the bank, and one owns a sedan, purchased out of his own funds.

In conclusion, Struckman is not a one crop farmer. He raises potatoes, melons, sweet corn, tomatoes and he maintains a large dairy besides. So he never has a complete failure any one year.

FORMER PRESS EDITOR APPOINTED P. M.

The following item will be of interest to the older residents of Campbell. Mr. Adams sold the paper here to L. C. Dick, who was associated with A. B. Chamberlain, and from whom it was purchased by H. C. Smith in 1912.

H. Earle Adams, for the past 10 years publisher and owner of the Healdsburg Tribune, has been named as postmaster for Healdsburg by President Coolidge and the Senate on Tuesday confirmed the nomination. Adams succeeds George Pearson, who has held the office for the past four and one-half years, his four-year commission having expired on January 9, last.

The new postmaster came to Healdsburg in 1918 and bought the Tribune, then a weekly. A year later, November 1, 1919, he started publication of a daily evening edition of the paper, which has been published continuously since.

Beginning his newspaper career in 1908, at the age of 18, Adams was editor of the Mayfield, Calif., Republican. In 1909 he purchased the Campbell, Calif. Press, which he operated for a year and then sold. He then went to Lamar, Col. where he was foreman of the Daily News. Attacked by typhoid fever which temporarily undermined his health, he returned to California and after a few months joined the staff of the Daily Palo Alto Times. From there he went to Ukiah where he operated the weekly Ukiah Times, and in 1913 went to Sebastopol as editor and manager of the Sonoma County News. In 1915 he purchased a half interest in the Lake County Bee at Lakeport, Calif., selling this early in 1918 to return to Palo Alto where he became general manager of the Daily Times again and took up special work at Stanford University. The World War interefered with his studies, he resigned his newspaper job and came to Healdsburg, November 1, 1918, where he has since been owner of the Tribune.

It is Adams' intention to continue operating his newspaper property, which will be managed by his wife, who has assisted him in operating the Tribune for the past seven or eight years.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Zion came from Cutbank to attend the funeral.

The two families were business callers here Wednesday.

GREATEST CATHEDRAL AT SAN FRANCISCO

A great effort is under way to complete the great Cathedral, whose crypt was opened for worship in 1914. This Cathedral is known as Grace Cathedral, and is located on Nob Hill, San Francisco. For this work the building committee is asking $3,600,000. This is the biggest undertaking of its kind West of the Mississippi, and in the words of the greatest American authority on ecclesiastial architecture, Grace Cathedral "is destined to take its place as one of the great works of religious architecture in this country."

One of the most remarkable features of our national life since the war has been the wave of cathedral building, which has spread across the length and breadth of the United States. What has caused it? The impulse, the desire to build these great cathedrals can be traced to the desire of communities not only to show the rest of the world that there are higher ambitions than those purely material, but to rise to the Creator of all things a shrine which acknowledges that everything worth while and all the benefits we have received have come from His hands.

There are 10 great cathedrals planned or in process of erection in the United States. The largest is in New York, the next in importance in Washington, D. C., and Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, is the third largest now in the process of erection. Some idea of its impressive size may be gathered from the exterior measurements, which are 340 feet long, with the width of the main front 119 feet. The nave will be 87 feet high, the twin towers 158 feet. Grace Cathedral when built will be far more than the central shrine of the Episcopal Church in the diocese of California. It will become a spiritual civic center. It will make its appeal to all classes and creeds for it will serve as no parish church or secular building can, to further the finest impulses of the community and of the State. It will become a sacred temple of memorials to the great sons and daughters of California to whom the church and the State do honor, drawing all classes and creeds to witness the reverence with which their splendid memory will be enshrined.

The leaders of many different churches have placed themselves on record as supporting this venture. In the words of Mr. Herbert Hoover, "I am glad to know that an effort is to be made to provide San Francisco with a proper cathedral. I hope and believe that not only people of this State, but Californians throughout the country, irrespective of creed, will give practical support to the plan."

This week has been set aside as one when all peoples will be given the opportunity of aiding in the building of this permanent monument. It is hoped that many in Los Gatos community will hear this call to enroll themselves as sharers in this great enterprise, this memorial.

More than 500 California produce dealers have received state licenses and posted $2,500,000 in surety bonds under the terms of the 1927 commission merchant act designed to protect the agricultural industry from the manipulations of unscupulous operators. it was announced recently by State Agricultural Director George H. Hecke. Los Angeles leads with 140 licensed produce dealers and San Francisco is second with 110. Each dealer is required to post a $5,000 bond.

TRAVELERS' ASSURANCE

MODERN travelers demand the comforts and conveniences to which they are accustomed. Travelers' assurance is an important function of the telephone—especially the rapid, convenient and economical telephone service now available to nearby and distant points.

The telephone way is an easy way to take the trouble out of travel—for making advance arrangements and hotel reservations—keeping in touch with the folks at home—making social and business appointments. And in emergencies, the traveler is only as far from help as the nearest telephone.

The general reliance placed upon the telephone by modern and experienced travelers is in itself assurance that—

INDUSTRY HELPS AGRICULTURE BUILD UP THE SMALL TOWN

Decentralization of Manufacturing Brings Markets for Products Closer to the Farm—Gives Employment and Better Standards of Living to Rural Communities.

By T. R. PRESTON
President, American Bankers Association

NO class of people has been more diligent in trying to understand the agricultural problem than the bankers of this country. The agricultural problem is a real problem and demands the best thought of everyone. This country cannot continue along happy lines with only sections of the country prosperous. Prosperity must be passed around if anybody is long to enjoy it. This question cannot be solved by the farmers alone, but the majority opinion is that there is no legislative remedy for agriculture. It is an economic question pure and simple and must be worked out accordingly.

T. R. PRESTON

A few years ago it was contended that agriculture did not have sufficient credit facilities. That proposition was often made a political question. I do not presume there are many who will question the fact that agriculture now has ample credit facilities.

Mixing Farms and Factories

It is a fact that no community and no state has ever become great purely from agriculture. It is not to the interest of New York and other great centers to see the small communities and the agricultural sections losing their wealth and importance. In the end it will react upon them to their disadvantage.

There seems to me a real remedy for these small communities and also for agriculture. This remedy, which is the mixing of industry with agriculture, is now being applied in many localities with satisfactory results.

Industry and agriculture are better balanced in Ohio, North Carolina and Pennsylvania than in any other states of the Union, and in these states there is no serious agricultural problem and we hear little complaint from the farmers. This mixing of industry and agriculture is called by some decentralization of industry.

I would not suggest that manufacturing institutions move from the cities to the small villages, but I do think it would be better for this country for future industries to be placed in these small villages rather than to be further congested in the great centers. This would in part also be a solution of our labor problem. The bringing of industries to small villages increases the market for agricultural products, gives employment to surplus labor, elevates the standards of living, increases public revenue, reduces taxes and vastly increases educational facilities.

Two Striking Examples

I believe I can give you two striking examples from my own state to prove this proposition, and I mention these because I am more familiar with conditions there than elsewhere.

Twelve years ago Kingsport, Tennessee, had a population of about one thousand. Great industries like a large camera company, a big cement plant and a number of other industries were located there partly through the influence of an outstanding New York business man. In a little more than twelve years these have brought the population of that city up to seventeen thousand. Just a few miles away, at Elizabethton, they are building a great rayon plant, the first unit to cost $5,000,000. The population of that town is now two thousand, but it is estimated that this will be multiplied by five in less than two years. It is stated that the total investment in manufacturing industry in that community within a period of five years will probably reach $50,000,000.

The balancing of industry and agriculture will solve most of our so-called agricultural problems and we will not need such political measures as will in my opinion, do harm if enacted to the very class they pretend to benefit.

Mixing Industry With Agriculture Means Prosperity for Rural Districts

Miss Ann Morrison, 23-year-old handwriting expert of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification, has stepped up to the "mike," 4,985 times during the last ten months. "Mike" meaning microscope, friends of newspaper land. Ann has broadcast the accurate identity of 239 forgers of anonymous letters and other criminals. And she has examined specimens of handwriting through which the public was bilked out of approximately $500,000. She has cleared up an average of five crimes with every handwriting identification, making a grand total of 1,195 since last July."

With the addition of thirteen more men who were sent out from San Quentin to prison road camps last week, the total number in the various camps is now 428. With the exception of four years ago, this is the largest number of men who have been in the prison road camps in the history of the penitentiary. It is planned to increase the number to approximately 1,000 before the summer is over, and this will greatly alleviate the present congested condition within the prison walls. The total number of inmates, both men and women, is now 4,321, the largest number ever recorded.

California produced 91,103 bales of cotton last year, the average yield per acre being 340.2 pounds, it was announced recently by E. E. Kaufman, State Federal agricultural statistician. The lower California total was 44,611 bales. Kern county was listed as having the highest California yield per acre, 464.9 pounds. The crop from 128,000 acres was given by districts, as follows: Sacramento Valley, 560 bales; San Joaquin Valley, 69,106 bales; Coachella and Palo Verde Valleys, 13,120 bales; Imperial and Bard Valleys, 8,317 bales.

California had "money to burn" last week, and State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson actually burned $8,000,000 worth. The million dollar conflagration involved the $8,000,000 bond issue authorized in 1919 to reclaim San Francisco-San Joaquin drainage district No. 6. Sale of the bonds was held up several times by court orders or other protests and cancellation was finally provided for under a new reclamation financing plan approved by the last Legislature. And Treasurer Johnson personally applied the match to $8,000,000 in the State Capitol furnace room.

There is no legal limit on short skirts, bare legs or other dress fads of California high school flappers so long as they don't interfere with "the orderly procedure of school." William John Cooper, state superintendent of public instruction, so declared last week when advised of new outbreaks on the "no-stockings" vogue and reports from Yuba City that high school girls there have appeared at school after "shellacking" their bare limbs with a dark liquid to resemble sheer hose. The schools exist for educational purposes, and local school boards can take action to alter the garb of students only when the dress styles interrupt the regular educational program. Cooper said.
